HEMBREE WAIVES HEARING

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

ONCE more a woman is rocking the foundation of empire—but this time, fortunately enough, it is only the institution of monarchy that is threatened, and not the destiny of the monarch's people. Edward the Eighth, Great Britain's unmarried king, loves a commoner; and, what is far worse from the traditional English viewpoint, the woman has been twice married, and is now obtaining her second divorce. Anyone familiar with British history knows that while it might be possible for a woman not of royal blood to sit on the throne it would be utterly impossible for a divorced woman to do so. And so the institution of monarchy is in double jeopardy at this moment in England.

Abdication Rumor in England; Archbishops Offended

Edward Has Stormy
Scene With the British Archbishops

CHURCH HAS POWER

Canterbury and York
Wield Power Second
Only to the Throne

LONDON, Eng.—Rumors circulated in society circles of London over the weekend—but they must be treated as no more than rumors—that King Edward VIII of England intends to abdicate.

He will, the rumor had it, turn over the throne to his eldest brother, the Duke of York, and marry Mrs. Wallis (Wally) Simpson, his American friend, after she is divorced.

The stories that the king will give up his throne follow world wide publicity on the monarch's close friendship for Mrs. Simpson.

Church Is Angry
LONDON, Eng.—King Edward's relationship with "Wally" Simpson—spotted as never before by the American woman's effort to divorce her husband—has brought the powerful political wrath of the English church down on the monarch's head. It was disclosed over the weekend that the archbishops of Canterbury and York recently absented themselves from a royal function where they had been "commanded" to appear, as a protest against the expected presence of Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson.

Significance Stressed
The significance of this snub to the king can hardly be underestimated. Throughout centuries of English history the archbishop of Canterbury has wielded an influence scarcely secondary to that of the throne. He is the primate of the Church of England, and the archbishop of York is second in command.

To offend these dignitaries is to challenge the displeasure of the English populace, so imbedded in English consciousness is the notion of ecclesiastical authority. Yet King Edward VIII did it for the sake of the churning American from Baltimore.

No Frankness Spared
Since not even an archbishop crudely says "no" to a royal invitation, the two prelates called on King Edward and "respectfully requested to be allowed to decline" their invitations. Reliable reports say that they made it painfully clear that Mrs. Simpson's presence at the party was the reason they couldn't attend.

The king blushed and appeared greatly distressed, court circles reported. Whether he pleaded with them to reconsider, the court informant couldn't say. Those who knew the king declare his strong will in matters of importance to him would never permit him to become the petitioner. The interview between the grave churchmen entrenched in their pride and tradition and the bachelor monarch fired with loyalty to the woman who has captivated him, ended with both sides standing their ground. Edward wouldn't budge. The archbishops likewise were adamant and did not attend the function.

The incident occurred some time before Mrs. Simpson startled the world by suing her former guardaman, husband, Ernest Simpson, in the little Court of Assizes at Ipswich.

Further Pressure Expected
Discussion of the rebuke aroused speculation over possible further pressure to be put on the king by the church. Already it is said, the archbishop of Canterbury, who is the Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, has talked

Government Wins as Supreme Court Rejects 3 Appeals

The Nine Justices Refuse
Review on Three Different Measures

TEST OF VALIDITY

Securities, Recovery, and Relief Acts Apparently Constitutional

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government won tactical victories in the United States Supreme Court Monday when the nine justices refused to review litigation challenging the constitutionality of three New Deal laws. The court declined to pass on an appeal questioning the constitutionality of the "truth in securities" act which requires registration of stocks before their public sale.

It also refused to review an attack on provisions of the national industrial recovery act, and the 1935 emergency relief appropriation measure authorizing government loans and grants for the construction of publicly-owned electric plants.

Court Drama for Father and Son

Steve Atkins Acquitted—
Bicycle Case Sent to County Court

Father versus son was one of the human interest stories in a long session of municipal court Monday.

City Attorney W. E. Atkins, the father, played the role of the prosecutor with his son, Steve, as the defendant.

Young Atkins pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault and battery. He was placed on the witness stand and given a trial. After hearing the testimony, Municipal Court Judge W. K. Lemley handed down a verdict of not guilty.

The case of Steven Atkins and Gordon Hoskins was merged. Hoskins appeared in court on a charge of disturbing the peace, and Steve Atkins charged with assault and battery.

Atkins was exonerated. Hoskins was found guilty by the judge and fined $5.

Judge Lemley referred the case of three minors charged with grand larceny in the stealing of a bicycle from Johnny Evans, Hope Star newsboy, to juvenile court. County Judge H. M. Stephens will hear the case, probably Friday of this week.

Judge Lemley explained that his court had no jurisdiction over minors—and referred the case to the county judge.

Six defendants pleaded guilty to drunkenness and were fined. They were Ernest Bennett, John Barber, Henry Gaines, Reeder Hopson, Carl Mauldin, Raymond Plant. All were given $10 fines except Gaines who was assessed $15.

Forfeiting $10 cash bonds for drunkenness were: H. T. Flesher, W. M. Phillips, Ollie Stuart, M. D. Watley.

Dewey Cooper was fined $25 for stealing gasoline from Bill McLarty.

Ton Nelson was fined $25 for stealing a razor from Sam Cox. A charge of drunkenness against Nelson was dismissed.

A charge of petit larceny against George Manus was dismissed.

A number of state cases were continued until next Monday.

25 Die in Italian Quake on Sunday

Northeastern Italy and Northwestern Yugoslavia
Are Shaken

VITTORIO, Italy—(AP)—Light earth shocks in this section of northern Italy where an earthquake brought death and destruction Sunday, creating fresh apprehension Monday.

The death toll to date, a hospital check indicated was between 20 and 25.

Shakes Two Nations

VENICE, Italy—(AP)—At least 25 persons died Sunday in a earthquake which shook Northeastern Italy and touched the northwestern section of Yugoslavia and a small section of Austria. Property damage in the Italian area was extensive and all the dead reported were from that sector.

Venice itself felt the trembler but damage here was slight. Dispatches from Trieste said the Croatian capital of Zagreb and the important city of Lubiana were thrown into panic by the quake which caused moderate damage.

Fifteen died in the Italian province of Cuneo di Sicile, among the mountains in the province of Friuli. The earthquake, preceded by a loud roar, killed one and injured six at Cornigliano. Several hundred houses, churches and even castles were knocked down.

There was panic throughout the province of Carnia Treviso. Tens of thousands of persons in night clothes rushed into the open to pass the terror of the night. Scores got into automobiles and drove frantically away from the region, some going as far as Venice 125 miles away.

There were casualties here and damage was confined to a few toppled chimneys. Many persons rushed from their houses, however, and hurried by gondola and motorboat to the Venice lagoon.

F. D. R. to Stump New England Next

Back in Capital Briefly—
Vandenberg Broadcast
Is Cut Off

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt settled himself at the White House desk Monday for a 40-hour stay, striving to clean his desk of an accumulation of business before returning to New England, his fast-traveling campaign for re-election.

The Vandenberg Incident

NEW YORK—(AP)—Senator Arthur Vandenberg, whose "debate" with the recorded voice of President Roosevelt was cut off the air by the Columbia Broadcasting system Saturday night, said Monday, "The incident is closed as far as I am concerned."

The broadcast was cut off in the Eastern section of the United States by a Columbia Broadcasting company employee because, the company explained, it violated a policy against the broadcasting of phonograph records—in this instance reproducing the voice of President Roosevelt.

J. G. Gude, press chief of the company, said Senator Vandenberg had spoken for more than 15 minutes in his scheduled broadcast criticizing the president. Recordings made of the president's speeches in 1932 and 1933 were used to intersperse the senator's comments.

Shortly before 7:50 p. m. (CST) an employee in the New York offices, Gude said, ordered the speech off the air on stations in the Middle West, the South, and New England. Stations in the Southwest and the Far West heard the entire Vandenberg speech, Gude said.

Capital City Isolated as Insurgents Close in From All Sides

MADRID, Spain—(AP)—The Madrid government mobilized thousands of taxicabs Monday to rush reinforcements to stem the advancing Fascist hordes.

The move was described as purely a precautionary one, to be utilized only in the event of an extreme emergency.

By the Associated Press

Madrid levied virtual siege orders on its population Monday as the insurgent forces pushed their lines within 20 miles of the capital.

The fascist commanders declared that they had consolidated a strong force south of the city stretching from El Alamo, four miles from Naval Carnero, to about eight miles west of Aranjuez, important communication point near Toledo.

The front to the south of Madrid is shaped into a battering ram, with the column focused at Casarrubios, about 18 miles south of Madrid.

The government massed a large force of militiamen 16 miles south of the capital, and stepped up last-ditch defense preparations.

Guard Against Carbon Tetrachloride Poisoning at Home or at Work

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

At home or at work, carbon tetrachloride as a poison must be guarded against. This substance is used in the rubber industry as a solvent and in the dry cleaning industry as a cleaning agent; it is put in fire extinguishers because of its power to put out flame.

Many cleaning fluids sold for home use consist largely of carbon tetrachloride. In machine shops, workers use this substance for removing grease from machines and from the hands. Beauty shops use it as a dry shampoo, and doctors prescribe it for removal of hookworm and other parasites.

Nevertheless, the fumes of carbon tetrachloride in quantity will disturb health, and overdoses are exceedingly poisonous.

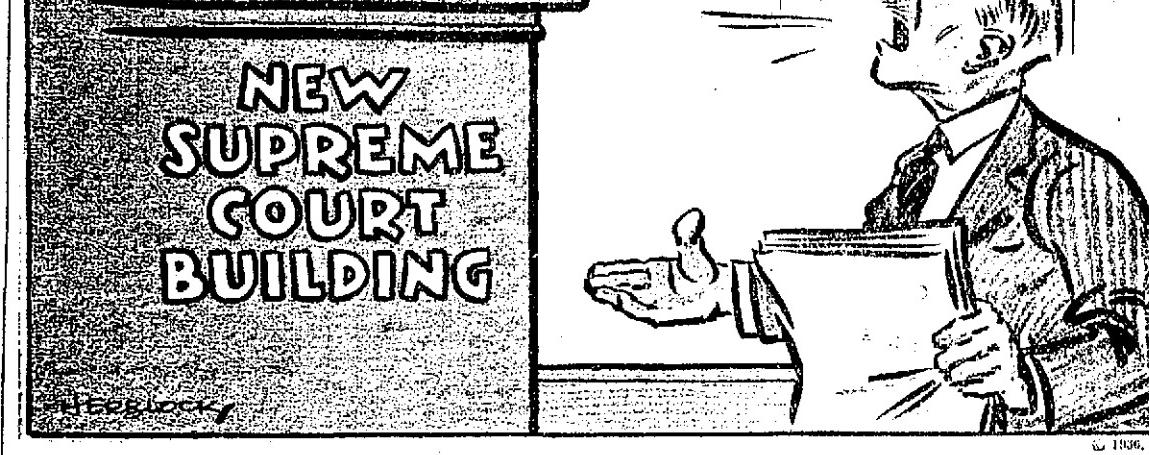

If the hands are kept too long in carbon tetrachloride, the chemicals will draw the fat out of the skin, which then becomes dry. A dry skin cracks easily, and germs can enter and cause secondary infection. People who work a great deal with carbon tetrachloride should grease the hands regularly with ointment before going to work, to prevent the dryness that may result.

In preventing intoxication from carbon tetrachloride, good ventilation is of utmost importance. The fumes are heavier than air and seek the lower levels. In large plants where many workers are employed, it is customary to build suction devices which will draw the poisonous fumes out of the room.

Carbon tetrachloride should never be used in shampoos for hair drying because of the danger of poisoning those on whom it is used.

A person who is actually poisoned by carbon tetrachloride should be removed at once from contact with the substance and given plenty of fresh air. The doctor will alkalinate the body, provide suitable remedies for building up the blood, and will guard against any possible dangers to stomach, kidneys, and other organs which may be damaged by this chemical.

As we voyage along through life;
It's the set of the soul that decides the

Texas—Land of Vacation Contrasts

No matter on what pleasant missions people are coming to Texas, somewhere within the bounds of the great Lone Star State their quests are being fulfilled during the Centennial year. For pageantry and grandeur there is, at top, the Cavalcade of Texas, brilliant spectacle presented on the world's largest stage at the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas. In the center are examples of beautiful statuary carved both by man and nature; Sam Houston, the hero of San Jacinto for whom the city of Houston was named, is memorialized in bronze at the magnificent Hall of State in Dallas, while the balancing rock in rugged West Texas is one of the marvels of nature (note the size of the figure standing at its base). Below are scenes depicting the influence of the tropics and the Latin heritage: The graceful palms at sunset are beckoning many to the Gulf Coast country and the Magic Valley, while the ox-car and patio are symbols of the cosmopolitan charm of San Antonio.

Louisiana Fair to Open on Saturday

Big Annual Event Will Get Under Way at Shreveport October 24

If the prediction of the management materializes, the State Fair plant will be in excellent condition and appearance when the 1936 Louisiana exposition opens in Shreveport on Saturday, October 24.

An army of workmen is busily engaged in putting the grounds and buildings in good condition and in attractive appearance. Their combined efforts are a sort of "cleaning and repairing" project.

The work is confined to no particular buildings or places. It is covering the whole State Fair property. The lawn is being "dolled up" figuratively, and the sort of refreshing and pleasing attention is being given the buildings and booths and other things used by exhibitors, concessionaries and others having part in conducting the big annual exposition.

Among the crews engaged in this annual job are carpenters, plumbers, electricians, painters and different unskilled laborers. They all have their particular jobs and are doing them according to well-developed plans. The appearances of buildings and other structures are being made attractive by the painters, and the carpenters, and service pipes and other utility equipment is receiving attention from plumbers and electricians.

Secretary Manager Hirsch, commenting on the work, said: "This force of workmen is getting everything in readiness for the opening day, October 24, and we believe the visitors will be pleased with what they see on the fair grounds and in the buildings. We will have the job finished before the opening morning. We hope those with exhibit and concession space will cooperate in full measure."

Some concessionaries already have their buildings up, and some exhibitors, especially business firms, are preparing their booths.

Chevrolet Trusts to Printed Page

Newspapers, Company's Major Advertising Medium Again for 1937

DETROIT—Chevrolet's achievement of all-time sales records in 1936, under a policy which made newspapers the front line of the company's advertising offensive, has dictated continuance of that policy in 1937, and especially in the announcement of the forthcoming new models. This statement by C. P. Fisken, advertising manager, was a feature of an all-day party which Chevrolet held for 300 newspapermen this week.

"The 1937 models are the finest Chevrolet ever built," said Mr. Fisken. "And the advertising behind them measures up to the product itself. Last year and for several years back, we have relied primarily upon newspaper space to get our message across to the public. In light of the amazing sales achievements of 1936, it is hardly necessary to justify to you our intention of adhering to that policy this year. The newspaper will be the foundation of our advertising effort."

Foreigners of famous paintings have been detected by means of photography, which reveals the differences of brushwork and mediums between old and modern paintings.

Bobcats Face Strong Nashville Team Friday

Crucial Contest for Both Elevens

Battle Holds State-Wide Interest—Neither Team Beaten This Year

LITTLE ROCK—(P)—Hope and Nashville, traditional Southwest Arkansas high school rivals, find their annual gridiron engagement at Nashville this week-end raised to a position of statewide importance.

For both teams the game will be a crucial one, carrying with it far more than sectional honors. Nashville has powerhoused its way to five consecutive victories. Hope has piled up a like number of wins although being held to a scoreless tie by Pine Bluff.

Far up in the northeast corner, the rampaging Blytheville Chicks face Walnut Ridge, a sectional foe that offers little probability of halting the Chick's victorious march. Walnut Ridge was handed a 60 to 0 shellacking by Jonesboro early in the season and went down to eight to nothing defeat at the hands of Batesville two weeks later.

Dropping down among the unbeaten but tied elevens, Hot Springs treks to Fordyce for an annual feature with Bob Cowan's Redbirds. The latter aggregation still packs plenty of power despite two losses. Coach Marvin Perry expects to have his next quarterback, Paul Longinotti, back in the Trojan lineup for this one.

Zebra vs. Wildcats

Pine Bluff, twice engaging in scoreless ties, has to cope this week with Son Shelby and the passing El Dorado Wildcats at the off city. Little Rock, unbeaten in the state but tied by Hot Springs, goes to Memphis to fill an annual engagement with Central high.

Camden, beaten only by Nashville, stays at home to engage the Texarkana Razorbacks.

A Western Arkansas feature finds Clarksville's Panthers invading the stadium of the Fort Smith Grizzlies.

Atkins, still unbeaten in five starts, faces a stern foe this week in Beebe. Russellville comes to Little Rock for a game with Catholic High and North Little Rock stays at home to fill an engagement with Stuttgart's Ricebirds.

In the Northwest Arkansas conference, Springdale plays at Fayetteville, Alma travels to Siloam Springs and Van Buren takes on Poteau, Okla.

College Races to Be Narrowed Down

Henderson Is Underdog in Battle With Arkansas Tech Friday

LITTLE ROCK—(P)—The three-cornered race for the state college football title will narrow to a two-team affair Friday with meeting of Arkansas Tech's wonder boys and the Reddies of Henderson State Teachers College.

The game will bring together at Russellville two teams yet unbeaten in the state. Henderson, however, went down to 13 to 0 defeat at the hands of Texarkana College.

The records point to a victory for Vanderbilt. Supporters of the Arkansas school have chartered a special train for the game.

Rounding out the week-end schedule, Monticello A. and M. plays host to LSU. Northeast Center of Monroe, La., the team Arkansas State Teachers blasted 27 to 6 last week.

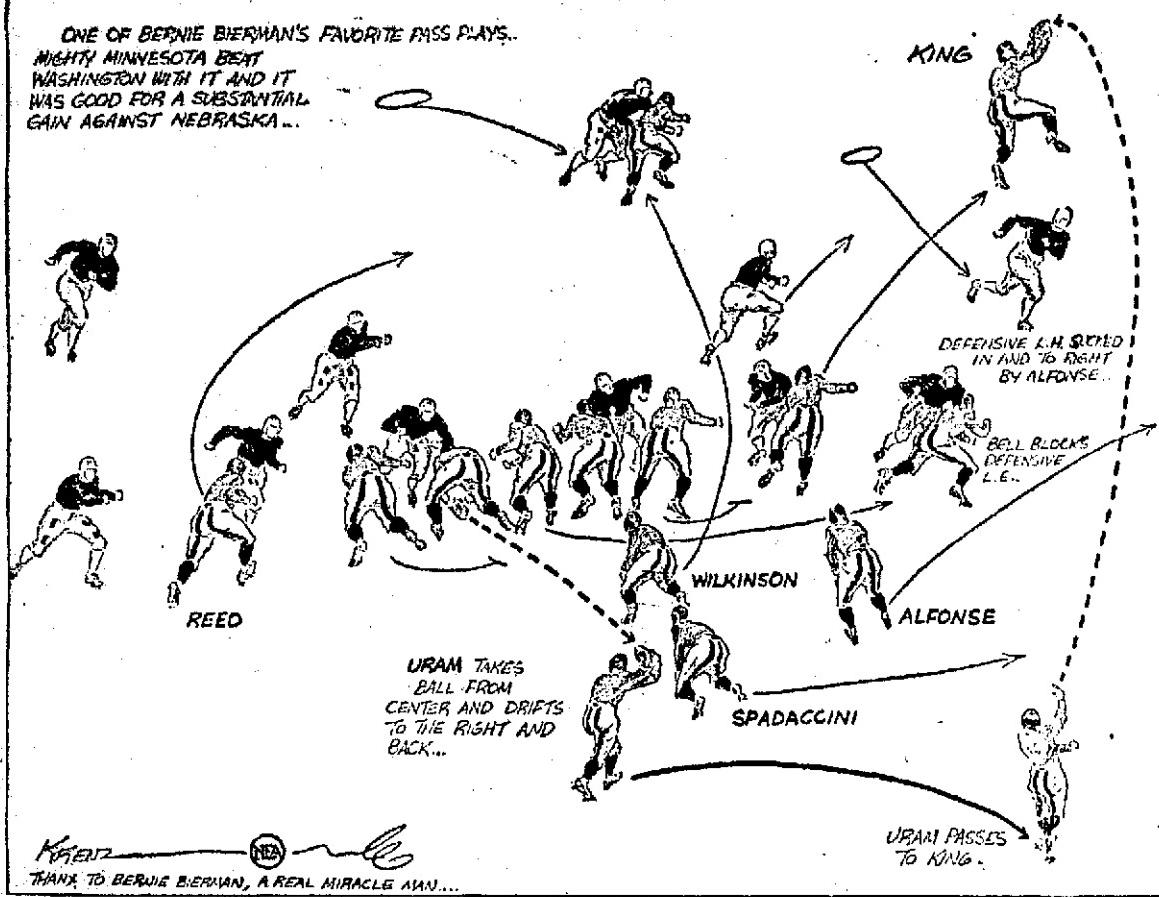

Arkansas state has an open date to prepare for Monticello A. and M. the Techmen. In four games this season, Coach John Tucker's charges have piled up four wins against state and out-state opposition, scoring 113 points against a mere six for the combined efforts of the opposition.

Henderson opened with an impressive 39 to 0 conquest of Magnolia A. and M., but lost to Texarkana and barely outlasted Monticello A. and M. seven to nothing last week.

ONE OF BERNIE BIERMAN'S FAVORITE PASS PLAYS.
MIGHTY MINNESOTA BEAT WASHINGTON WITH IT AND IT WAS GOOD FOR A SUBSTANTIAL GAIN AGAINST NEBRASKA...

KING
THANK TO BERNIE BIERMAN, A REAL MIRACLE MAN...

By ART KRENZ

NEA Service Sports Artist

Above diagram illustrates one of Bernie Bierman's favorite pass plays.

Minnesota scored with it from the 10-yard line to beat Washington in the fourth quarter in Seattle, and employed it for a substantial gain against Nebraska.

The play is run with the power on the right side.

Ball goes from Earl Svendson, center to Little Andy Uram, in the tailback position. Uram drifts to the right and back, and flips the ball to Ray King, end, who is in the clear.

In the Washington engagement, King caught the pigskin in the end zone.

Julius Alphonse, halfback, runs into the flat zone as a potential receiver or decoy, and sucks defensive left halfback in and to right. Charley Wilkinson, quarterback, goes through to look after the safety man, Vic Spadaccini, sophomore fullback, comes over to protect Uram.

Catholic and Boston University turned in triumphs over DePaul, 12-7 and Washington University, 6-0, respectively.

In the Midwest, Minnesota, Purdue, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Marquette and Michigan State continued their winning streaks. Minnesota, stopping Michigan, 26-0, rang up its 20th consecutive victory. Northwestern twice came from behind to nip Ohio State's Buckeyes, 14-15, in a brilliant battle.

137 Road Victims During Week-End

Six Persons Killed in Grade Crossing Crash
at Dayton, Ohio

By the Associated Press
Automobile accidents over the weekend claimed at least 137 lives throughout the nation.

At Dayton, Ohio, six persons were killed in a grade-crossing collision of an automobile and a train.

Two girl students at Wheaton college, Norton, Mass., lost their lives in a head-on crash between two cars on the Boston-Providence, R. I., highway at Dedham, Mass.

Seven deaths in upstate New York accidents were attributed to wet roads. More than 50 accidents were reported in the Syracuse area, causing three deaths.

Deputy Police Commissioner Harold Fowler of New York city announced that approximately 30 per cent fewer pedestrians have been killed or injured in city streets since the department started a safety drive in June, 1934.

Week-end auto deaths by states:

Alabama, 7; Arizona, 2; Arkansas, 3; California, 9; Colorado, 4; Georgia, 1; Illinois, 6; Indiana, 3; Iowa, 3; Kentucky, 2; Maine, 2; Massachusetts, 6; Michigan, 12; Minnesota, 7; Missouri, 1; Mississippi, 3; New Mexico, 1; New York, 7; North Carolina, 9; Oklahoma, 2; Pennsylvania, 13; South Carolina, 6; Tennessee, 3; Texas, 11; Virginia, 2; Washington, 3; Wisconsin, 3.

Abdication Rumor

seriously with the king on the subject of duty, and reminded him of his late father's devotion to the nation.

Their move now, it was said, would not be an attempt to banish Mrs. Simpson. They would be satisfied if the monarch's association with her were kept in the background particularly since she is about to be divorced.

Coronation Odds Shown

Although no one in London is seriously disturbed over conjectures that the king might abdicate in favor of the Duke of York, the Simpson menace seemed to be reflected today in a sharp decline in betting odds, through insurance on the coronation. Odds that the coronation would take place next May as scheduled were only 5 to 1, compared to 20 to 1 when the date was announced last July.

The quotations mean that the insured trader puts up five guineas to get back 100 pounds indemnity in case the coronation is postponed.

The betting is based on the insurance requirements of merchants, concession holders, dress makers, and others, who would benefit financially by the influx of coronation crowds. It was explained that it is almost impossible now to place any coronation risk insurance except by "strong negotiation" because the market is "full."

Munitions Probe Has a Kick-Back

Roosevelt Incident Preceeded by Nye's Attack on Late Wilson

By PRESTON GROVER

Associated Press Correspondent
WASHINGTON—A good many persons in Washington suspected the munitions committee had in its files some such affidavit as the Elliott Roosevelt-Arthur Folker document relating to the contract dealing with proposed sale of airplanes to Russia.

But like many such stories, it ricocheted around the capital without taking on substance until Senator Nye, North Dakota Republican, chairman of the committee, released it with the explanation that it was to offset a magazine story saying the committee was suppressing pertinent matter.

It may or may not have a dime's worth of political effect. But it does raise a question as to just how much material of present or future propaganda value is yet locked up in the committee files.

Clark Hints More

Senator Clark of Missouri, Democrat on the committee, hinted there was more. In his angry upbraiding of Senator Nye for releasing the document, Clark allowed a faint fragrance of the hidden wonders to escape. He protested the committee had "decided unanimously" that the Elliott Roosevelt-Folker document, as well as "several other matters" which had come into committee hands, were entirely outside its authority.

He did not say what the "other matters" were. It is a fair to middling guess that before long, so disrupted is the committee, various members will tell all."

Another aspect of the case is this:

"Just how far can a committee go in its 'disclosures' without starting a reaction?" The seven munitions committee members, four Democrats and three Republicans, packed the papers with headlines in 1934-'35 and early '36.

Nye Draws Wrath

The committee started on an unanimous intent on building up a propaganda for war, proffering legislation and for neutrality acts. Some wanted government ownership of munitions manufacturing.

But Nye, in his zeal to prove his contention that bankers and munitions makers were responsible for American entry into the World War, ran in a side alley momentarily and emerged with an assertion that President Wilson "falsified" in relation to world war treaties. Down on his head came the wrath of Wilsonian senators. The committee split, and much of its prestige was lost.

Only part of the committee's purpose has been accomplished. It helped to win enactment of neutrality bill, half as drastic as its members wished.

Hammerfest, the northernmost city in the world, was the first city in Norway to have electric lights. The power for the lights was furnished by waterfall.

F. D. R. to Stump

It was concluded Saturday night Senator Vandenberg commented as follows:

"I know nothing about the radio rules. I only know that competent and conclusive experts said we complied with the rules. But rules or no rules, we have come to pretty pass in the United States when radio censors or any other overlords can tell us we dare not faithfully confront candidates for high office with their own words, their own voice, their own broken promises. We evidently have a new issue in this campaign, and in the jeopardy of legitimate freedom."

Mr. Vandenberg took parts of the Roosevelt speeches, passing from time to time with a slightly metallic voice which, however, carried the authentic Roosevelt timbre, rasped out portions of the 1932 campaign speeches, a slice from the inaugural address, and subsequent speeches delivered after Mr. Roosevelt took office.

Tenancy Parley's Date Is to Be Set

May Be Fixed When Subcommittee Convenes at Little Rock Tuesday

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Governor Futrell said Monday that the date for the proposed South-wide conference on farm tenancy would probably be set Tuesday.

A subcommittee of the Arkansas Farm Tenancy commission will meet here Tuesday to consolidate various proposals for handling the sharecropper problem.

Futrell said the calling of the South-wide conference was contingent upon the adoption of a definite program for action by the Arkansas commission.

like jail—I'm no exception.

Hembree then asked about the subscription rates of Hope Star and handed a five-dollar bill through the bars. "I want the paper for about six weeks. If I get out of here before that time you'll send the paper to me at my home won't you?"

Hembree was given his change and then the prisoner started gathering up a Sunday newspaper and a 10-cent Western novel to read.

BARBS

Now that trailer homes are here, the bumpy country roads should come in handy for cocktail mixing.

A medical column reveals that though the word "pediculus," or louse, is taboo, a physician occasionally must use it in talking to a patient. Until the bill is paid, probably.

A columnist reminds us that lately we've heard little of the Spanish bull. But then he mustn't have been reading war dispatches.

The Wisconsin man who sleeps through winters is postponing this year's hibernation to November 1. Unless, of course, he happens to hear an election speech.

Young lads who used to run away from home have to be careful, in this trailer era, that the opposite doesn't occur.

Cardui to their daughters. Isn't it natural that mother should tell her daughter Cardui if the mother herself had been benefited by it?

It is impressive that so many mothers report having taken Cardui to help them. Of course, if it helps, consult a physician.

Cardui has been found to help women when weakened by nutrition (poor nourishment); and to relieve much discomfort at menstrual periods.

Thousands of women testify
